IF YOU HAVE 1 HOUR

MAIN QUAD
57th St. – 59th St.
Between University Ave. and Ellis Ave.
architecture.uchicago.edu

The centerpiece of the University of Chicago campus is without question its main quadrangle. Designed in 1891 by famed Chicago architect Henry Ives Cobb, the Neo-Gothic style of the Quad lends itself to classrooms, laboratories, and libraries alike. At various points in the year, the Main Quad is the site of everything from quiet study and relaxation to the bustling Spring Convocation ceremony.

HARPER MEMORIAL LIBRARY READING ROOM
1116 E. 59th St (3rd floor)
catheylearningcenter.uchicago.edu

Housed on the third floor of the William Rainey Harper Memorial Library, the Harper Reading Room (also known as Arley D. Cathey Learning Center) is among the chief centers of academic life on campus. Underneath its barrel-vaulted ceiling, students think, study, and sleep in one of the most charming spaces on campus.

THE SEMINARY CO-OP
5751 S. Woodlawn Ave. (McGiffert House)
semcoop.com

The legendary Seminary Co-op opened 50 years ago as an independent bookstore on the UChicago campus and instantly became a centerpiece of Hyde Park’s intellectual and cultural life. The bookstore recently moved from the basement of the labyrinthine stacks of the Chicago Theological Seminary to a new space next door to the Robie House designed by Stanley Tigerman and Margaret McCurry architects.

IF YOU HAVE 4 HOURS

BOTANY POND
57th St. (west of Hutchinson Court)

Located in the middle of campus, Botany Pond is the university’s biodiversity hotspot, hosting a remarkable variety of animals including ducks, four species of turtles, and a dozen species of dragonflies. For over a century, the pond has served as a tranquil outdoor study space, relaxation destination, and nexus of intellectual life on campus. Plus, rumor has it, if a couple kisses on the bridge over Botany Pond, they will get married.

ROCKEFELLER MEMORIAL CHAPEL
5850 S. Woodlawn Ave. (at E. 59th St.)
rockefeller.uchicago.edu/events

Rockefeller Memorial Chapel is a hub for ceremonies, theater, orchestral performances, chorus groups, concerts, and even circus acts. While you’re there, make sure to walk up the 271 steps to the top for 360 degree views of Chicago, Lake Michigan, northern Indiana and the port, the Michigan shoreline, and of course, the University itself. Visit the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel website for information on daily Carillon tours, nondenominational religious services, and mindfulness meditation workshops.

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT’S ROBIE HOUSE
5757 S. Woodlawn Ave. (at E. 58th St.)
gowright.org/visit/robie-house

The purest expression of Frank Lloyd Wright’s Prairie Style architecture, Robie House was completed in 1910 and continues to be considered one of the most important buildings in the history of American architecture. Docent-led tours available, advance tickets are highly recommended.

TIP: Visit Plein Air Café, nestled inside of the new Seminary Co-op space, for breakfast, lunch or dinner and enjoy coffee, European-inflected comfort food, and a French atelier-inspired atmosphere.
IF YOU HAVE 8 HOURS

REVA AND DAVID LOGAN CENTER FOR THE ARTS
915 E. 60th St. (between Ingleside Ave. and Drexel Ave.)
logancenter.uchicago.edu

One of the newest buildings on campus, the Logan Center is the new home for the arts on the UChicago campus. Designed by award winning architects Tod Williams and Billie Tsien, the 11-story building houses a performance hall, experimental black-box theater, multimedia editing labs, unbeatable views of campus from the 10th floor DelGiorno Deck, and a café that features lunch and dinner options, wines and craft beers, and a full service espresso bar.

TIP: Visit Logan’s box office for tickets and information related to campus-wide performances and events or purchases tickets online at ticketsweb.uchicago.edu.

RENAISSANCE SOCIETY
5811 S. Ellis Ave (Cobb Hall 418)
renaiassancesociety.org

Don’t be fooled by the name – the Renaissance Society is actually a contemporary art museum that presents cutting edge exhibitions, performances, films, readings, and much more. Founded in 1915 in an effort to encourage awareness of contemporary art, the Renaissance Society is one of the oldest modern art museums in the country and has displayed artists including Pablo Picasso, Diego Rivera, Mies van der Rohe, and Réné Magritte. Admission is free and is open 6 days a week (closed Mondays).

TIP: Stop by the IDs and Privileges Office located in the Regenstein’s first floor lobby for access to the Gallery.

ORIENTAL INSTITUTE MUSEUM
1115 E. 58th St. (corner of 58th St. and University Ave.)
io.uchicago.edu

Founded in 1919, the Oriental Institute has been one of the world’s foremost centers for Near East research for almost 100 years. Its museum holds artifacts ranging from thin ivory carvings, mummies, and some of the world’s earliest written records to a 40-ton human-headed winged bull statue out of an ancient Assyrian throne room. Upstairs, classrooms and offices continue to reform and refine our understanding of the ancient world. Admission is free with a suggested donation. Make sure to stop by the gift shop, The Suq, on your way out!

TIP: Use the University’s new 53rd St. Shuttle to get to Harper Court quickly and easily! It departs from the Ellis Ave. parking garage every 30 minutes from 7am – 6pm, Monday – Friday.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS RESEARCH CENTER GALLERY
1100 E. 57th St. (inside the Regenstein Library)
lib.uchicago.edu

The Special Collections Research Center in the Regenstein Library is home to the University’s rare books, manuscript collections, and archives. Included are early editions of the English Bible, Austrian dramas that date to the 17th century, the printed works of composer Frédéric Chopin, and a collection of Soviet pamphlets. The Special Collections Research Center Gallery is free and open to the public.

NUCLEAR ENERGY SCULPTURE
On Ellis Avenue between 56th St. and 57th St. (just North of Mansueto Library)

The sculpture Nuclear Energy, devised by Henry Moore, commemorates the site where in 1942, underneah the former Stagg Field, Enrico Fermi and the Manhattan Project team created the world’s first nuclear reactor and carried out the first ever self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction. Theories abound on what the sculpture represents. The most common theories include that it is a human skull or an atomic mushroom cloud.

HARPER COURT
5235 S. Harper Ct. (on 53rd between Lake Park Ave. and Harper Ave.)
www.harpercourtchicago.com

Located along one of Hyde Park’s primary retail corridors, Harper Court hosts a variety of restaurants and shops. Only recently completed, Harper Court has already began to brighten the area with restaurants such as Native Foods, a vegan restaurant featuring chef-crafted fresh meals, a movie theater, and a Hyatt Place hotel, opening Hyde Park to the outside world.

Share your experience
#UChicagoVisit

©2012 All rights reserved.
1. REVA AND DAVID LOGAN CENTER FOR THE ARTS
   915 E. 60th St.

2. MAIN QUADRANGLE
   E. 57th St. - E. 59th St.

3. HARPER MEMORIAL LIBRARY READING ROOM
   1116 E. 59th St. (third floor)

4. THE SEMINARY COOP BOOKSTORE
   5751 S. Woodlawn Ave.

5. BOTANY POND
   57th St. (south of Hull Gate)

6. ROCKEFELLER MEMORIAL CHAPEL
   5850 S. Woodlawn Ave.

7. FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT’S ROBIE HOUSE
   5757 S. Woodlawn Avenue

8. RENAISSANCE SOCIETY
   5811 S. Ellis Ave. (4th floor)

9. SPECIAL COLLECTIONS RESEARCH CENTER GALLERY
   1100 E. 57th St, (inside Regenstein Library)

#UChicagoVisit

Share your experience